AUTHORITIES LOOKING FOR A MRS. JOHN McQUADE WHO IS SAID TO BE A LEPER.

SAN BERNARDINO, September 16. The people of San Jacinto, a little southeast of here, at the base of San Jacinto Peak, have just discovered the startling fact that a leper has been mingling in their midst for the last three months without their knowledge G. L. Greenwell brought the story to this city today.

Some time ago there arrived at San Jacinto a Mr. and Mrs. John McQuade, who rented a cottage in the suburbs. He was a carpenter and prosperity smiled on him from the moment that he first set his foot in the town. The couple made friends, but no one ever caught a glimpse of his wife's face, she always appearing in the presence of others heavily velled. The man explained this by stating that she was bothered with a painful rash, which, if exposed to the air, would become the more aggravated.

"On account of the disagreeable character of the work of canning salmon it has been necessary to employ Chinese labor almost exclusive ly in the canneries," says Commercial West. "Besides this the China" man could be depended on at all seasons, as he seldom, if ever, goes on a strike. During the last few years, however, the large increase in the number of canneries in operation and the more strict enforcement of ASSIGNEE OF MORTGAGEE'S NOthe Chinese laws of the country have created a scarcity of Chinese labor. To offset this shortage of labor a few men with an inventive turn of mind have devoted much time and money in perfecting machines that will in a great measure take the place of the Chinese and that will also greatly reduce the cost of handling the fish.

The first machine that was found to be practicable was a machine for filling the cans automatically. This machine worked with such precision and did the work so much more accurately that it has almost en- 247 on Pages 206 to 208, and by said tirely supplanted the Chinaman in this direction. The next step was Frank R. Harvey assigned to Samuel the introduction of a machine that put the top on the cans and then soldered it on more perfectly than could be done by hand labor. After this came the lacquering machine, then the labeling machine, in each Liber 247, on Page 207, notice is hereby Royal Roads. And from the present outlook premises described in Royal Patent it is but the matter of a few years until these machines will be perfected (Grant) No. 2205 to Pune. to such an extent that they will almost entirely supplant the use of Chinese labor in the salmon canneries. As it is now, a sheet of tin is piaced in a machine and starts on its journey toward the filling machine, where it arrives cleaned and salted ready to receive the salmon, which was started from the fish deck at the same time and has been beheaded, finned, cleaned and washed and divided into pieces weighing exactly a pound. At the filling machine the fish and the can commence their capital stock of the company hereinjourney together, passing through the topping machine, which places after mentioned a special meeting of the top on the can and crimps it, and then through the soldering machine and on to the whipping machine, which cleans every bit of grease and oil from the outside of the can. Here the cans are taken from the Hawaii on Wednesday the 30th day of lines and placed in trays, then placed in the big steam chests, where September 1963, at 16 a. m. of said day they are cooked for one hour and ten minutes, after which they are taken out and small holes are punched in the ends of the can, the air allowed to escape, and then they are resoldered and again placed in an of the Company upon such terms as iron retort and cooked for another hour. After this second cooking may be decided at said meeting, and they are taken out to the cooling room, where they are cooled off and such other business as may come betested for leaks; from here they go to the big warehouses, where they are stored until the lacquering and labeling commences after the fishing season is over. With the perfecting of the many machines mentioned it will only be a short time when the Chinaman and Jap will be a curiosity around a salmon cannery.

strances and having full faith in the honor and word of an officer of the United States army, I accompanied Captain Pierce and Mr. Thompson. counsel for the accused, to the Court House and made a motion before Judge De Bolt, who was sitting judge, that the defendants be released upon their own recognizance, stating in open court that the military authorities would be responsible for the appearance of the men when wanted. Both Mr. Thompson and Captain Pierce were present when I made this statement and remained silent. The court, after some demur, granted my request and the men were released and turned over to Captain Pierce.

'A copy of the minutes of the court as to this occurrence is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

Shortly afterwards I received a call from Major John McClellan, commanding the United States military post at Honolulu, and he asked whether the civil authorities would dismiss the case in order that he might send the men out of the Territory of Hawaii. I informed him that I could not at that time agree to dismiss the cases, but would consider the matter soon as possible. I repeated to the Major the understanding I had with the men's counsel and Captain Pierce prior to my moving for their release on their own recognizance, and stated that I would not have done so had I felt that there was the least inclination on the part of the military authorities

The Major then stated to me that he had no wish in any way, to conflict with the civil authorities here, and would produce the men when necessary On the 3rd day of April, 1903, I wrote
